"The Lord of Hosts is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge."

A Strong Argument for Prohibition.

Says the Kentucky Temperace Advocate: "About two years ago.,Judge A. W. Bartlett, of Trimble county, Kentucky, re-fused to license the sale of intoxicating drinks to any man in the county. This 'new departure' by a county judge was heralded all over the land, and a charge of insubordination was made, and an appeal went up to the Court of Appeals. mained firm. He looked at the work of the license system in the county; he saw 'evil, only evil,' and that continually, and resolved that by his hand no more men should be allowed to work ruin among his people; that in eternity no rum-seller should hold up his license and say. Here, Lord, is my authority, signed by the county judge of Trimble county.

The Court of Appeals sustained the judge, and since that day not a licensed rum-shop has been granted for the county. Now, mark the result: To-day there is not a criminal case on docket in Trienble. Trimble county, not a criminal in the jail, not a pauper in the county, and not a licensed bar-room.

Last county court day, though the county seat (Bedford) was crowded with people, not a drunken man was seen in the town. Perfect order and good-will reigned. No husband went home a terror to his wife, no father a demon to his Men ask, 'What good will a prohibi-tory law do, if passed?" Here is one of many examples we could give just like it. Is not such a record desired for every county? Look at Anderson coun-ty with her two while the property ty, with her two whiskey murders in one week; look at Jefferson county, with her forty or fifty murders per year, and five hundred and thirty-seven arrests in one city in the month of June; look at Pulaski county, with her ten whiskey murders recently; look at Bourbon, with her ten whiskey murders now on docket; look at Scott, with her docket crowded - and then look at Trimble, free from whiskey and free from crime, and say whether you will put your name with Judge Bartlett's against the license sys-tom or in favor of it."

Notes.

A vigorous temperanc movement is making progress in Copenhagen. A company has been organized with a capital of 100,000 crowns, with which to erect a number of coffee and eating houses, where no intoxicants will be sold. Good food will be served at moderate prices, and a good supply of news-papers and periodicals will be provided.

By a unanimous vote of its legislature. New Hampshire decided last month to introduce scientific temperance education into the public schools. It is the third State to adopt this precautionary measure for opening the eyes of the children to the physical and mental results of in-temperence. Vermont and Michigan having enacted similar laws previously.

The Emperor of Japan takes the initiative in temperance. He has appointed a commission to devise methods for the suppression of the liquor traffic.

The Burlington Free Press has been figuring up the local pay-rolls, and says that $2,000,000 a year is paid for labor in that city. The Shephard & M ree lumber company paid $11,644 in October, the J. H. Gates cotton mill $7,500 and J. R. Booth $7,668.

Receiver Rich is reported as being of the opinion that depositors in the St. Albans Trust company will be paid sixty per cent. The receiver is pre-paring to pay a dividend of twenty per cent, and checks will soon be sent by mail to all depositors to this amount. This dividend will disburse about $116,-000 to depositors.

A reunion of Company "F" of the 2nd Vermont regiment was held at Montpelier, on Thursday evening of last week. The company, noder Capt. F. V. Randall, organized at Mont-pelier and was known as the "Capi-tal Guards." Of 83 men who went out with the company in 1861, 43 are now alive.

At West Burke, a boy named Bishop At West Burke, a boy named Bishop climbed up on the window stool the other day, got his father's powder flask containing about half a pound of powder, and tried the experiment of turning some on a hot stove. The powder took fire, followed the stream into the flask and an explosion followed, mangling one arm and burning his breast and head terribly. It is probably a fatal injury. A father and sou, named Bell, at Fairfax, have been held for trial for assault on each other. The father threatened to kill his wife because she wouldn't make over her property to him, and attacked her with a club. The son, 16, attempted to defend his mo her, disabled his father's arm with a blow, and then, with his mother's help, held the father till help came. Public sympathy is with the boy, who has found bail in $5,000, while the father remeios in jail.

The will of the late A. Ladd of Georgia contains a bequest to the "Vermont State convention," and the Baptist State convention have put in a claim for the money bequeathed, on the ground that the testator had been a strong believer in that denomination, and consequently must have intended to remember them in his will. The question seems rather mixed, as there is a "Vermont Baptist State conven-tion," and a "Vermont Universalist State convention." but no permanent organization known as the "Vermont State convention," referred to in the
